

BCA Local Cave Leader Level 2 Training

With Steve Banks

Overview

Steve Banks Outdoors runs a wide range of caving provision both home and abroad to suit all interests. This British Caving Association (BCA) course is the second step on the instructional ladder. Holders of this award have been assessed as competent to lead others in a restricted number of caves with simple pitches up to 18m in depth. The list of caves is personal to each individual and is agreed at assessment. The training course comprises 2 days of practical and theoretical input which will be run as far as possible in line with Steve's strong experiential ethos. Assessments need to be arranged directly with BCA assessors (such as Steve), this process will be explained during training.

The basic qualification covers appropriate equipment and rigging, ladder usage, safety lines, group abseiling, rescue procedures and group leadership and management. Most individuals additionally opt, at assessment, to include Single Rope Technique (SRT) use for the leader. This element will therefore be covered as part of the training course.

Dates and Cost

As advertised on the website though bespoke courses can be run by arrangement – please call to discuss your needs.

Venue

This course will be based in the Western Dales. It is a non-residential course though advice and assistance is available if needed.

Equipment

Whilst it is anticipated that most trainees will possess most of their own kit, Steve has excellent technical equipment for caving which will be available should you need it.

Prerequisites

You must have registered on the BCA's Local Cave and Mine Leader Scheme, have completed the Level 1 Local Cave Leader award and arrive on the course with your BCA logbook up to date. You do not need to join the BCA to register.
